Paul Jones Goes Out—Methilda In From London Via San Francisco—New Boat To Go On Coos Bay Run—Lurline Very Late.

One of the finest kinds of a circus was on show on board the Nahotta Friday evening just before her departure from Ilwaco. The star performance was that given by a horse and a butter-tub. Incidentally the mate and a deck hand took minor parts. The horse's name was Maud. It got loose from a number that were being put aboard, and started the show by kicking the mate in a beautiful arc through the air on to the top of a high pile of freight. Next Maud selected a deck hand and him she carefully landed through one of the cabin windows. But the fun did not fairly commence till the tub of butter came into the ring. About 30 seconds after Maud clapped eyes on it there was butter all over that ship. The smoke stack and the engines both got their share and it is rumored that Captain Parker is still combing particles of it out of his hair. The whole deck finally became so nicely greased that Maud took a slide into the river. This had the desired effect and when Maud was hauled out she shimmered down and all was peace and happiness on the trip over.

The steamer Breakwater, which will ply regularly between the Columbia and Coos Bay, will sail on her first voyage July 9. She will leave San Francisco for Coos Bay next Monday. The steamer will be operated by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, although the name of the line will be known as the Portland & Coos Bay Steamship Company. With the steamer F. A. Kilburn, which dropped in at Coos Bay on both the down and up trips, taken off the Columbia-San Francisco route the Breakwater will be warmly welcomed by the shippers.

The Telegraph brought down a large number of loggers yesterday. She picked them up at all her calling stations on the way down, all the logging camps having closed down.

The steamer Lurline did not leave up the river till 2:30 p. m. yesterday and consequently did not reach Astoria till after midnight.

The Pilot schooner came in yesterday and anchored off the O. R. & N. dock.

The tug Wallula came up the river yesterday having the schooner Alumna in tow. The Alumna will load lumber at Knappton.

The tug Daring of Hoquiam returned there yesterday leaving here about 3:40.

Lumber appears to be in demand in the antipodes. The British steamship Strathmairn, 2700 tons net register, was chartered by the American Trading Co. yesterday morning to transport a cargo of fir to Melbourne or Adelaide. The company also reserves the right of loading her either on the Columbia or at a point on Puget Sound. The Strathmairn, a sister ship, was added to the list yesterday to take lumber from this port.

District Forecaster Beals is experiencing all sorts of difficulties in keeping a full force of observers at the various weather stations. E. C. Hobbs, the observer at Tatoosh, fell ill the other day and the man who fills a like position at Port Crescent was sent to take his place. In the meantime the station at Port Crescent will remain out of commission. The station at Walla Walla has also been temporarily abandoned. Fitzhugh Newman, who presided at that point, took a sudden notion he would like to go on a European tour. Without waiting for the appointment of a successor he packed his portmanteau and started on his trip around the world. This makes two stations out of commission in the district and there are no eligibles on the list of applicants who can be sent to fill the vacancies. So Mr. Beals says he has troubles of his own.

Jamestown Exposition.

Next sale dates for the Jamestown Exposition will be July 3rd, 4th and 5th. Round-trip tickets to Missouri River, Chicago and Atlantic seaboard points can be purchased on these dates at the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad city ticket office in Page Building. Sleeping car reservations via all lines will be arranged for. Unusually low rates have been made. 6-29-07.

The big sidewheeler T. J. Potter made her first trip of the season down the river yesterday. She had the largest load she had ever carried on an opening trip, upwards of 240 passengers being aboard. She also brought some freight. She will continue to make regular daily runs now for the rest of the season with the exception of Mondays and Saturdays on which days she will miss the down and the up trip respectively.

The tug Daring of Hoquiam brought up the barge Wallacut yesterday morning and left her at anchor in the stream.

The Norwegian steamer Mathilda came from San Francisco yesterday in ballast. She is a vessel of 3238 tons and will load lumber for Freemantle.

The gasoline schooner Evie came in yesterday from Alsea Bay with a cargo of salmon.

The steam schooner Svea took 700,000 feet of lumber for Los Angeles yesterday morning.

The torpedo boat destroyer Paul Jones went down the river about 5 o'clock last evening.

The Sue H. Elmore left out for Tillamook yesterday morning with passengers and freight and towing a gasoline launch.

RECEIVES HIGH COMPLIMENTS.

THE HAGUE, Holland, June 29.—Russia received a high compliment for its humane methods of treating the wounded in battle today from President Barnhardt, of the Land War Commission. Barnhardt said Russia has developed the art of caring for wounded soldiers and providing them with necessary comforts to a greater degree than other countries. He spoke at length upon the possibilities of making hardships of war more possible to bear, and made a plea for work along this line by the nations.

Afterward the commission was divided into two sections. The first section will discuss improvements of the international law determining the usages of war along the lines suggested by Barnhardt. The second section will discuss the rights and obligations of neutral nations in time of war.

THROUGH RAILROAD.

Direct Communication Between Los Angeles and Guatemala City.

LOS ANGELES, June 29.—Direct communication by rail between Los Angeles and Guatemala City, is promised by J. M. Kneeland, general manager of the Pan-American railway, by January 1, 1908. By next September, says Mr. Kneeland, who has just returned from Los Angeles from Central America and Mexico, work will be commenced on the roadbed of the railroad through San Salvador. He received a cablegram from San Salvador today, closing arrangements for a subsidy from that country for $5,000,000 for the construction of the road. This completes arrangements for the rights of way through all of the Central American Republics except Guatemala, all of them now agreeing upon a substantial subsidy for the building of the line which will extend 1700 miles from the Isthmus of Tehu-
